Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 10 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mostly cloudy in west with best sunshine in east. Warm.

Today:
Cloudy start for many. Brightening up for most with warm sunny spells but the odd shower possible. Staying cloudy for some western parts with some light rain in far west.

Tonight:
Cloudy with light rain and drizzle in western areas, heavy at times in northwest Scotland. Dry further east with clear spells but low cloud, mist and fog in south later.

Friday:
Brighter and fresher in north with scattered showers. Cloudier across central and southern parts with rain at times in west. Sunny spells and very warm in southeast.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Often breezy with rain/showers in the far north. Elsewhere, mainly fine and dry, with sunny spells. Perhaps cloudier more generally Monday. Warm/very warm for many. Nearer normal in the north.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.